Missouri Valley Defeated Tarkio in Double Header Yesterday, 15-3 and 23-15—No Literary Programs

The Normal "Bearcats" are playing the baseball team of the Missouri Valley college of Marshall here this afternoon. They won a real track meet from Tarkio yesterday, 23 to 15, reminding all of the recent 12 to 20 defeat to Kirksville.

A double header was played with the first score 15-3 for Missouri Valley. Friend Elder was evidently ashamed of the scores, for only one game was sent to the city papers. All of the literary society programs were postponed this afternoon on account of the games.

Mrs. A. E. Cockayne left for Carlock, Ill., this morning for a short visit with her mother, Mrs. Rachel Craig and other relatives.

FORTY-SEVEN CARS TAKE OVER 200 TO CONCEPTION AND CLYDE

MAJORITY ASTONISHED

Huge Buildings, Fine Equipment and Modern Character of College and Convent a Revelation

Forty-seven cars with something over two hundred visitors to Maryville made the 46-mile trip yesterday afternoon to the abbey, monastery and convent at Conception and Clyde.

The banquet Tuesday night was good, the dance at the Elks club last night was a most pleasant closing but there seems to be little doubt that the automobile trip was the most popular with the visitors

Automobile trips have been given to the delegates before at state conventions. But they were usually for the purpose of showing over the city or town in which the convention was held. To the city man particularly the country roads and rural air, with an opportunity of seeing the country homes with fine live stock and all that Nodaway county has to show, gave the Knights of Columbus a delight which they were not slow in expressing.

"The finest trip ever given at a convention," seemed to be the general expression of opinion. For the Catholics the opportunity of seeing the great buildings was also a rare privilege.

To the few Nodaway county residents who went as drivers or guests of drivers, the buildings there came as a greater surprise than anythigg they have seen in months. Few realize just how immense an abbey, college, monastery, convent and farms the Catholic church has there.

Many Recent Improvements.

The Nodaway resident who has not visited the church plants there in recent years will find himself a stranger to the grounds and buildings as so many improvements have been made

A large addition has been built on the south of the college building containing a gymnasium in the basement, a school room on the first floor and science equipment on the second. The dormitory rooms are upon the third floor.

The old original building is given over to the music department. A full set of band instruments are provided

U. S. NOW PREPARING FOR INTERVENTION

All Points on Border to Be Strengthened and Americans Are to Be Removed as Soon as Possible

Special to The Democrat-Forum.

Washington, May 11. — Elaborate preparations are being made for the protection of all vital points along the Mexican border if a break with Carranza comes, which most officials consider almost certain.

It is stated again officially today that the United States will not recede from its position but will keep all troops in Northern Mexico until Villa is captured or killed. Many officials fear that an open break between Generals Scott and Obregon will come today.

Last Conference Today Probably

El Paso, May 11.—Generals Scott, Funston and Obregon went into a conference today which promises to be the last. They met in El Paso at 10 o'clock this morning.

None of the conferees would make any statement prior to the meeting. Funston said this morning that he was considering an offer of the First cavalry of the Illinois National guard for border duty.

All Americans Should Leave

Washington, May 11. — Americans throughout Mexico are being warned to leave at once, Secretary Lansing announced today. The secretary made it plain that the orders to American consuls to urge Americans to get out at the earliest opportunity were not confined to any locality.

Officials for the most part maintained an unusually silent attitude toward the Mexican situation today. All seem to be awaiting developments and everything is reported to be hinging on the conferences of Scott and Obregon today.

To The Citizens of Maryville and Vicinity

In behalf of Maryville Knights of Columbus, the Executive Committee wishes to thank all who in any way assisted in making the state convention which closed yesterday a success.

Were it not for your assistance and interest it would not be possible to have the 285 visitors going to their homes today, everyone of them singing their praises of Maryville.

Before leaving, the state officers and all delegates and visitors desired us to make public the fact that Maryville made the convention entertainment the most successful ever held in the state and regreted that they were compelled to have the automobiles wait beyond the appointed time to start on the trip to Conception.

They urged us to express their highest appreciation for the Commercial Club, the Mayor and citizens of Maryville, and the State Normal President, Ira Richardson. The Odd Fellows Lodge, the Elks Lodge, the owners of all automobiles who left their work to make the trip to Conception; and especially those who opened their homes to our visitors where they might enjoy your comforts and hospitality.

We would like to thank each one personally, but there are so many to whom we are indebted that it is impossible to do this without overlooking a great number were we to attempt to name them, hence we thank you all.

In the sessions we emphasized the fact that it was MARYVILLE and not the local council who made the convention such a great success and asked them to bear in mind that no matter what organization selects Maryville a place for assembly that Maryville still has a six-foot key to open the greatest strong chest of hospitality of any town of its size in the state.

Thanking one and all for assisting in placing the name of Maryville on the map in larger type than ever as a convention town, we are most sincerely thankful to you all.

CONVICTS FED TOO WELL.

Chemists Say Inmates of State Institution Get Too Much Food.

Topeka, Kan.—The men confined in the Kansas penitentiary are fed better than is necessary for the work that is required of them, according to a report on the food served the prisoners by Professor E. H. S. Bailey of the chemical laboratories of the University of Kansas. The report has been filed with the civil service commission. The test was made of the foods served to the prisoners in December and January.

The chemists collected samples of the twenty-four different articles of food furnished the prisoners, and only three were found to be below standard, and the quantity furnished each prisoner was more than sufficient for his needs. The cheese was of poor quality, and the pepper contained too many pepper shells. The bread, while nutritious, was not first class, due to a poor bakery at the prison.

"Some of the inmates of the penitentiary are performing hard, muscular work," said the report, "but a large number are doing only moderate work, so that the average would not be much above moderate muscular work, which chemists have found can be done efficiently on food containing 3,400 calories or heat units daily. In no case was the food served at the prison below 4,000 calories a day, and in many instances the food was above 5,000 calories a day."

"AN ETHER SOUSE."

Prisoner Tells Judge Why He Stole Drug From Hospital.

Los Angeles, Cal.—How and why he invaded the county hospital, stole a can of ether, a package of iodoform and a roll of bandages, told by H. L. McCaslin in Judge White's court, was declared by the court to be the most peculiar statement ever made before him.

McCaslin described himself as "an ether souse" and pleaded guilty to the larceny charge. According to his story, his indulgence in the soporific dates back two years. He said:

"One night I started to ride to work at Bakerfield on a motorcycle and on the way was struck by a car. They took me to a hospital to operate on my leg, and for the first time in my life I smelled ether. I thought it was the finest experience I ever had. Since then I have persuaded six more doctors to operate on me. Then I found I could buy the drug.

"Lately I have been living in Pomona. On Orange day I brought some of the fruit from Pomona to the county hospital, where I met some of the boys who were there when I was a patient. I got a chance to get a big can and some things for my leg. Then I was arrested."

Judge White sentenced McCaslin to ninety days in jail.

MONEY IN WOODEN LEG.

Body to Be Exhumed In Search For Woman's Wealth.

St. Louis, Mo.—Charles Kroener of Detroit will have the body of Miss Elizabeth Hauck exhumed at Alton to look for money which he thinks she may have concealed in her wooden leg. When she died, Sept. 15, $700 was found in her clothing. Kroener, who was her guardian, thinks she must have had more money than that.

Kroener also doubts whether the finding of the coroner's jury that she killed herself is correct. He is making an investigation and will place evidence in the hands of the state attorney and ask him to take action.

Miss Hauck was thirty-five years old. She was formerly in the millinery business in St. Louis, at California avenue and Arsenal street. She set herself up in business with part of the $3,000 she received from a railroad company for the loss of her leg twenty years ago. On account of failing health she stored her millinery stock and went to Alton.

SHE FAINTS AT WAR NEWS.

Later Seized With Convulsions After Reading Newspaper Headlines.

New York.—A well dressed woman gazed fixedly at headlines of newspapers on a stand at Fourteenth street and Sixth avenue for a few moments and then fainted. Later she was seized with convulsions.

The hundreds attracted by her screams and struggles with two policemen heard her say she had lost two brothers in the war. Dr. Loughlin of St. Vincent's hospital diagnosed the case as acute dementia, probably caused by her bereavement, suddenly recalled by what she had read in the headlines.

At Bellevue hospital the woman said she was Mollie Fogarty, but gave no address. She is about thirty-five years old.

Three Brothers Lose Eye Apiece.

Albert Lea, Minn.—The right eye of Hugo Brenner, a young farmer, was torn from its socket the other day while he was cutting down a tree. This is the third accident of its kind in the Brenner family. While his brother William was playing mumble-the-peg recently his companion flipped the knife too high, and the sharp blade penetrated the left eye. Another brother was kicked in the right eye by a colt.

Tombstone For a Hearth.

Waynesburg, Pa.—Discovery that a tombstone had been used as a hearthstone in the residence of Miss Jessie Baer, in East Greene street, has been made. In making some repairs the stone was removed, and on the underside was the inscription, "Elizabeth, wife of George Heise, died Oct. 12, 1832, aged forty years, nine months and seventeen days."

for the students with quarters in this building. Instruction is also given here.

The abbey is said to be much the same as is also the monastery. Many changes have been made in the grounds and in the landscape gardening. The athletic fields with tennis courts, two baseball diamonds and other arrangements for sport are in fine shape.

Much interest also was shown yesterday in the dairy and the other farm arrangements. Comments were frequent at the cleanliness and order of everything both inside and out. Guides were provided for the visitors yesterday by the college.

A new building has been added on the south of the convent for the orphanage which almost doubles the capacity of that institution. Many think that the Benedictine Sisters Chapel is the most beautiful of buildings there.

The printing plant of the Sisters was one of the great surprises of the trip. Full equipment of type presses, folders, stitchers, binders and other machines of the latest type and modernness. It really must be the most wonderful printing office any where for everything was spotlessly clean and in order, there was no dirty towels to be seen and no waste paper on the floors. And they say that it is always that way.

A great many of the cars came back through Clyde and Ravenwood, having gone down through Conception Junction. W. R. Jackson, secretary, and Albert Kuchs, chairman of the transportation committee of the Commercial Club, wish to thank, in this way, all those who furnished the cars by which Maryville so royally entertained their guests.

SHADES OF "TO OBEY"

M. E. RITUAL MAY OMIT "I THEE ENDOW."

Many Other Interesting Changes in Methodist Discipline—Substitute "Sin" for "Devil."

New York, May 11.—Penniless young men who are to be married hereafter, according to the ritual of the Methodist Episcopal church will be saved the embarrassment many have experienced in the past, provided the Methodist general conference, now in session at Saratoga Springs, accepts the suggestions concerning the change of ritual which the committee will present.

The objectional words which the committee proposed to eliminate are the words in the ring ceremony, which the groom has hitherto repeated after the officiating clergyman while placing the ring on the finger of the bride.

The ceremony now reads: "With this ring I thee wed and with my worldly goods I thee endow."

The last phrase, "with my worldly goods I thee endow," is hereafter to be omitted if the committee's report is accepted.

It also is proposed to expunge the reference to Isaac and Rebecca as models for the marriage relation on the ground that Isaac in his career was not up to the standard of the New Testament. The Rev. H. F. Hall of Garrett Biblical institute, Evanston, is secretary of the committee on revision and will make the report. The Rev. Charles Bayard Mitchell is also a member of the committee.

Special effort has been made to keep the proposed changes in the ritual secret as the report of a similar committee four years ago at Minneapolis produced such an uproar that the entire report was tabled. It was asserted, however, that the manner of presenting the report was an important factor in making the report unacceptable.

Other changes provide that the questions answered by the bride and groom shall be exactly identical. The word obey was eliminated years ago, but at present the groom promises to "comfort" the bride, while the promise exacted from the bride does not contain any reference to comfort.

There are also changes proposed in the baptismal service which eliminates the time honored statement, "I renounce the devil and all his works," and the words, "except a man be born of water and of the spirit."

Changes also will be proposed in the burial service and in the form for receiving members into the church and especially for receiving children.—The Rev. W. B. Norton in the Chicago Tribune.

OBREGON TO RULE

Wife Believes He Eventually Will Become Mexico's Head.

COUNTRY AGAINST SUFFRAGE.

Women Only Desire to Make Homes Bright and Husbands Happy; but, However, Some Day They May Fight For Equality, Says General's Wife.

El Paso, Tex.—Mrs. Alvaro Obregon is a singularly beautiful woman. Her face has a wholesome pallor. It is perfectly white, with the clearness of health. Her hair is as black as night. It is piled on her head in great shining masses.

Her mouth is firm. Decision and strength of character are shown. But her eyes are big, black and flashing.

Mrs. Obregon in a pretty morning gown recently sat in her husband's private car near the depot of the Central railroad in Juarez. Through the open door she had a glimpse of the Casas Grandes mountains.

"Do you believe in the duenna system under which Mexican and Spanish girls are brought up?" Mrs. Obregon was asked.

"Decidedly, yes. It may curtail their pleasures, but it is safe. The Spanish and Mexican girls are the most innocent and unworldly girls in the world.

GENERAL OBREGON.

Their minds never have been contaminated by any outside influences. They are brought up aloof from the world. They never see their sweethearts except in the presence of the duenna. That is perfectly right, according to my ideas. It precludes the possibility of temptation."

"Pardon me, senora, but were you courted under those conditions?"

"Yes; General Obregon never saw me alone until after he married me."

"Do you believe General Obregon eventually will become master of Mexico?"

"I not only hope he will, but I believe he will. I have perfect faith in my husband's star."

"Did you marry General Obregon because he is a hero who appealed romantically to your imagination?"

"I married him because I loved him," replied Senora Obregon simply.

"How long do you think it will be before he attains supreme power in Mexico?"

"I cannot even guess."

"Has there been a quarrel between General Obregon and President Carranza?"

"None whatever. There has not been even the slightest friction. They are in perfect accord. I have no idea where that story started."

"Do you believe in suffrage for Mexican women?"

"No," was the prompt answer. "I do not disbelieve in it for American women, for I hardly think Mexican women are ready for it. Mexican women have their own problems. Suffrage is not yet one of them. Perhaps some day we may want the vote.

"I cannot imagine our gentle Spanish women fighting for the ballot as the Anglo-Saxon women do. It is contrary to their natures. They are gently bred and nurtured. However, one never can tell what the turn of the wheel will bring. Our Mexican women have plenty of fire and spirit. Some day they, too, may fight for equality with men."

"What are the present problems of Mexican women?"

"To make their homes beautiful and attractive, to make their husbands happy, to rear their children to be fine men and women."

"Is not that the duty of women everywhere?"

"Perhaps, but it is peculiarly the problem of women of the Spanish races. They are raised with such a vastly different point of view regarding men than that of the women of the races of northern climes. Men are to them superior creatures. That is Spanish tradition. Its shackles bind closely.

"Whether men are our superiors or not, they are at least stronger. Their position in the social scale is that of our protectors. They make the home for us. We beautify it."

"You believe in the home woman in contradistinction to the woman who takes part in public affairs?"

"Yes, yet both, I suppose, have their places in the world."

NEWS FROM ALL Northwest Missouri

Recently Earl Dowling, a farmer near Hopkins, lost five cows from feeding them some clover hay. The few remaining cows in his herd are also in a serious condition from the same cause. The clover was some that had been put up rather wet from wet ground last summer. About three weeks ago, Mr. Dowling got a load of this hay from his father to feed until grass came and the very first feed produced the disastrous results already related.

Ves Mathes, an Eagleville farmer, announces in the Bethany Republican, that his supply of seed corn is exhausted—after selling 741 bushels.

W. F. Smith of Maryville, has a Northern Spy apple, which was plucked from the tree in July, 1878. It came from the orchard of the late George P. Carpenter, southeast of Clearmont. It was preserved by thrusting cloves though the skin until the apple was practically covered. It has shrunken to above one-third its natural size, but is otherwise well preserved.

Dan Rhodus has a country ham hanging in his smoke house at his home near Mosby, which was cured by his father in 1878—37 years ago—which is plump and of fine appearance, although seemingly solid as a rock. Lucky is the man who has ham meat in sufficient quantity that he can preserve one that length of time. A town fellow would have had it in the oven the second year, anyhow.—Liberty Tribune.

Joe Smith, a shoer in the big barns of Guyton & Harrinton, at Lathrop, is suing the company for $10,000 as damages for the kick, which one of last summer's war mules gave him. It was a triple kick, he says, landing on three separate parts of his anatomy almost at the same instant.

The first horse shipment of the season left Lathrop, last Monday, consisting of 11 car loads of 20 head each. The British horses are being assembled there now and from now on will be shipped in constantly increasing numbers.

Recent action of the Holt county court in plotting 4,000 acres of accreted lands along the Missouri river near Fortescue will likely become the subject of a number of very unusual lawsuits which can scarcely be settled by less authority than that of the United States supreme court. Forty years ago other lands occupying the exact position of these lands were owned under regularly issued patents from the U. S. government, from the state of Missouri, the state of Nebraska, and from Holt county, Missouri Then in the early 80's the Missouri river changed its course and destroyed these farms—hundreds, thousands of acres of them—and for years the river and its tributary swamps occupied the place. Of late years, however, the Big Muddy has receded to the westward and good land has again been built up on the disputed position. This gave rise to many lawsuits between recent squatters and original owners and now Holt county has taken a hand, plotting 4,000 to be sold as school lands. There are numerous legal questions that arise and the cases that grow out of this action will doubtless go through the courts from the lowest to the highest and will become the subject of widespread interest and attention. The Oregon Sentinel last week published a remarkable article setting forth the history of these lands and the questions involved in the recent action. This unusual article is illustrated by an etching which occupies five full columns on the front page of Holt county's splendid county seat newspaper.

Guyton and Harrington have just completed an artifical lake near Lathrop. The lake, when filled, will cover 98 acres. The dam is 1,600 feet long, 52 feet high, and 187 feet wide (at widest point). The fill required 165,500 cubic yards of dirt and 11,612 loads of rock. A new engine and pump will pump 1,000 gallons of water a minute. The plans of the company include four miles of park and pleasure drives, boat houses, music pavilion, bathing beach and a car load of young fish. Twenty acres of sod and numerous forest trees and shrubs will be transplanted to beautify the grounds.—Lathrop Optimist.

John T. Painter of St. Joseph, was the Savannah Reporter's first paid subscriber, when it was established 40 years ago. Last week, he sent his current annual payment, and the Reporter states that this subscriber has never been in arrears.

King City was visited by a disastrous fire, May 1, which destroyed the Moran livery stable and contents and the two Maupin buildings adjoining. One of these was vacant and the other was occupied by W. B. White's produce house. It was only by hours of strenuous fire fighting that the King City workers saved the adjoining buildings. "No bucket brigade in the state ever did better work than was done by the men and women of King City, at the fire, Monday night," says the Chronicle.

Emily J. Millen, one of the pioneers of the King City neighborhood, a resident of that section for 60 years, died there last week, at the age of 94. Her husband, Samuel Millen, died in 1880, and Mrs. Millen not only maintained the family home for her six children, but has also exerted a powerful influence for good in her community.

The Princeton Post warns against a traveling faker, who is going about the country, selling an insecticide, which he says is manufactured by the government. He represents himself as an agent of the University of California, and sells his wonderful bug juice at $2.50 the quart. Thus far, he has travelled under the name of T. L. Hunt.

Excelsior Springs has recently completed a $65,000 high school building.

C. S. Hixon, a Richmond jeweler, displays a pair of spectacles 100 years old. They are the property of W. A. Dye of that city, and were originally used by his grandfather, John Dye, back in Virginia.

Ray county is to have at Richmond during the first week in September, an old fashioned "rope fair," such as they used to have back in the 70's. It will be a live stock fair with races and plenty of attractions and a gate charge of 25 cents.

Pattonsburg fed 700 Jefferson Highway boosters at their recent good roads banquet. A striking feature of the feast was a roast hog—a big one—donated by a live farmer of Daviess county.

Albany boosters are after more paving, and with good prospects of success. Petitions are now being circulated for the paving of three principal streets.

E. J. Blakeslee, Andrew county's well known collector of Indian relics, has announced that he intends eventually to present his valuable historical collection to the Savannah library museum.

Many papers have been running an item which leaves the impression that checks under $1 are unlawful. The Worth County Tribune quotes the U. S. Attorney General with reference to this matter. The law as passed during the Civil War on account of conditions then existing and still remains on the Criminal Code Laws of the United States, but has long since ceased to be in effect. It is perfectly lawful to write checks under $1.

Mr. and Mrs. John Fothergill ,of near Rosendale, celebrated their 59th wedding anniversary on April 30. They have been residents of Andrew county for thirty-one years.

Carrollton is considering the erection of a community house. The building will include a gymnasium, reading rooms, farm bureau and a convention hall seating 2,000 persons.

Tom Gates, of Trenton, started on April 26 to walk from St. Louis to San Francisco. The trip is the subject of a wager and the young man will make the journey without funds, and will carry on his back a sign reading, "I'm from Missouri."

John Frost, Princeton's oldest hotel man, died, at the Frost hotel in that city, April 30, aged 69 years. He became a hotel keeper at Princeton in 1881.

Princeton's 1916 paving is under way. Hoover Brothers started work on their contract, last Wednesday, says the Princeton Post.

Forty-two Greeks, Bulgarians and Russians, who started a miniature European war at Minnaville, in Clay county, on Easter morning, were lodged in the Clay county jail. They were given their liberty the other day upon payment in cash of all the fines assessed. These amounted to $21.35 for each man, and the county became richer in the transaction by more than $800.

Worth county announces through its treasurer that it can now pay all county warrants up to July, 1915. At the sale of the county warrants at Grant City, last week, the bidding was brisk, and all county warrants sold at 98 and 99 cents on the dollar, which is proof that the temporary delay in payments is no serious cloud on the county's financial responsibility and resources.

AFTER FOUR YEARS.

Maryville Testimony Remains Unshaken.

Time is the best test of truth. Here is a Maryville story that has stood the test of time. It is a story with a point which will come straight home to many of us.

Mrs. A. Weidman, 403 E. Thompson St., Maryville, says: "I had dull, dragging pains through my kidneys. My kidneys were also irregular in action, especially if I took cold or at any change in the weather. I used different medicines, but with no success, until I took Doan's Kidney Pills. In less than a month, I was free from the trouble and without an ache or pain." (Statement given Sept. 19th, 1908.)

OVER FOUR YEARS LATER, Mrs. Weidman said: "I have recommended Doan's Kidney Pills to hundreds of people, as the best medicine I have ever used. My former recommendation still holds good."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Weidman has twice publicly recommended. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

GASOLINE ALMOST GONE

Petroleum Deposits More Than 30 Per Cent Exhausted—Will Last 27 Years More.

Special to the Democrat-Forum.

Washington, May 11.—Petroleum deposits of the United States now are more than 30 per cent exhausted. The remaining supply in present and prospective fields will last only 27 years. These statements were emphasized in reports of field experts to the federal trade commission, which is about to report to congress. The nation is producing 60 per cent of the world's output and of this 20 per cent is being exported and 25 per cent used as fuel under boilers. Experts calculated that fully 20 per cent is "wastefully utilized" thru the use of petroleum in making artificial gas. Gasoline consumption in the United States is estimated at 1,500,000,000 gallons a year. The automobile is given as one of the reasons for the great demand for the products. There are now 2,225,000 automobiles in use in the United States It was estimated that 3,000,000 will be in operation a year hence.

Manufacturing interests in the United States are now spending from 20 to 60 per cent more for wages than heretofore. Part of this is due to the great demand for labor and part to higher wages. With an unlimited demand for farm products at top prices and a job for every man who is willing and able to earn a day's wages, there is scant comfort for the platform makers at the coming Republican national convention. About the only thing left for them is to "view with alarm" while the Democrats proudly "point with pride."

TRIBE NOW DEAD.

Ishi, Noted Aborigine, Succumbs to White Plague.

ORIGIN MADE HIM FAMOUS.

Shown as Survivor of Last Tribe of Deer Creek Indians of Yano Line. Lived on Victims of His Bow and Arrow.

San Francisco.—Ishi has been gathered to the land of his fathers.

Last of the Deer Creek Indians, tribe of Yano, Ishi has gone to the happy hunting grounds. He died at the University of California hospital, a victim of the "white plague," disease of the paleface.

For several months the aborigine, who was captured in the wilds of northern Butte county in the summer of 1911, had been in ill health. A year ago he developed acute lung trouble, and at times he suffered greatly, bearing his pain with the stoicism of his kind.

Just a few minutes before he passed away Ishi joked with Curator Gifford of the affiliated colleges. At that time he was in agony. Final relief came with a hemorrhage.

Ishi, who never had seen any money of the white man until he was brought into civilization, left what he considered a fortune in worldly goods—about $350 and personal effects. With the common desire of all California Indians, Ishi labored to accumulate wealth. Unlike the members of most tribes, whose standing is rated by what they give away, Ishi, with the characteristics of California and British Columbia Indians, hoarded his pennies, which he earned in various ways. His estate was taken in charge by the public administrator.

Ishi, living the life of a savage in Butte county, stole a calf in the summer of 1911, and officers of the law ran him down. They were amazed to discover the thief was a primitive creature, clad in animal skins and armed only with a bow and arrow. The prisoner was taken to the Butte county jail, and it was there that T. T. Waterman, assistant professor in anthropology, pronounced him to be the only surviving member of the lost tribe of Deer Creek Indians of the Yano line.

The scientific world was greatly interested in Professor Waterman's announcement, and Ishi became famous. He was brought to this city and lodged at the affiliated colleges on Sept. 4, 1911. After months of patient effort Professor Waterman was able to talk with Ishi. What he learned from the captive left no doubt in his mind that Ishi really was the last of the savage tribe of Deer Creek.

Ishi adapted himself to the ways of the white man. He built himself a home on the grounds of the affiliated colleges, where he was the object of much curiosity. He attended lectures by Professor Waterman and other savants of the State university.

In May, 1914, Ishi took Dr. A. L. Kroeber, head of the affiliated colleges museum, and Dr. Saxton T. Pope to Butte and showed them his former haunts, reverting to his skins and bows and arrows. The report of Dr. Koeber and Dr. Pope confirmed the belief of Ishi's descent.

We are authorized to announce the candidacy of W. A. Burks for sheriff of Nodaway county, subject to the action of the Democratic primary, August 1.

We are authorized to announce the candidacy of Gabe Purcell for the Democratic nomination for sheriff of Nodaway county, subject to the action of the primary, August 1.

New Organization Recently Formed Will Advance Agriculture.

JAMES WILSON IS PRESIDENT.

T. N. Vail, Vice President, and T. Coleman du Pont, R. V. Lindabury and W. H. Moore Among Directors—Will Be Farmers' Mouthpiece.

New York.—The organization of the National Agricultural society, to improve agricultural conditions throughout the country, was completed at a meeting of prominent men here.

James Wilson, who was secretary of agriculture in the cabinets of Presidents McKinley, Roosevelt and Taft, was elected president, and Theodore N. Vail, president of the American Telephone and Telegraph company, was chosen as vice president. Mr. Vail is largely interested in agriculture, having founded an agricultural school for boys on his farm in Vermont, which he recently turned over to the state.

G. Howard Davidson was elected chairman of the executive committee. Mr. Davidson was one of the founders of the International Live Stock exposition and is identified with many agricultural and live stock associations. These directors were elected: James Wilson, Theodore N. Vail, G. Howard Davison, T. Coleman du Pont, John A. Spoor, Richard V. Lindabury, William H. Moore, Henry C. Stuart, James W. Wadsworth, Jr., Robert A. Fairbairn, Samuel Insull, Charles A. Otis, N. H. Gentry, Peter Jansen, Fairfax Harrison, Walter A. Johnson, P. C. Long.

JAMES WILSON.

Spoor, chairman of the board of the Union Stockyards and Transit company of Chicago, was one of the men responsible for the success of the International Live Stock exposition. Richard V. Lindabury has found time to reach a high place in the agricultural world because of his success in improving the breed of Guernsey cattle and Berkshire pigs. William H. Moore, a director of the National Biscuit company and interested in other large New York enterprises, is a familiar figure at horse shows both in this country and abroad.

Governor Henry C. Stuart of Virginia is the largest raiser of beef cattle in the south. He made the production of beef on a large scale successful in the east. Senator James W. Wadsworth, Jr., is the proprietor of a model farm at Geneseo, N. Y. He also has had extensive ranching experience in Texas. Robert A. Fairbairn, vice president of the International Paper company and one of the foremost breeders of Clydesdale horses, has for years been interested in the work of the New Jersey state live stock commission. The studs of Samuel Insull on a 4,000 acre farm in Illinois are known throughout the middle and far west.

Charles A. Otis and N. H. Gentry, the former in New York state and the latter in Missouri, are known to up to date agriculturists for their work in cattle and horse breeding. Peter Jansen of Nebraska has been rated as the largest sheep raiser in the central west. As president of the Southern railway and a practical farmer in his native state of Virginia Fairfax Harrison has worked consistently for the improvement of farmers' conditions in the south. Walter A. Johnson, who was elected treasurer, and P. C. Long, who was chosen as secretary, both have been long connected with farmers' publications.

Among others who have been instrumental in organizing the society are James J. Hill and W. K. Vanderbilt of New York, J. H. Wade of Cleveland, Frank O. Lowden of Illinois, Mortimer L. Schiff of New York, William du Pont of Virginia, ex-Senator C. W. Watson of Maryland, V. Everit Macy and W. Averill Harriman of New York.

It is felt by those responsible for the founding of the National Agricultural society that there should be in this country a national organization to which the farmers could look for help and guidance and which would be their mouthpiece in agricultural matters of national concern. Permanent headquarters for the society eventually will be established at Washington.

POISON BRAN MASH BEST

State College of Agriculture Recommends Plans for Ridding Land of Bugs and Worms.

Corn root worms yield best to crop rotation, systematic clean culture, and fall plowing.

Garden web worms eat alfalfa, live and spin webs over the plant. If your field is badly infested, cut the alfalfa and disc the ground.

Wire worms injure corn and potatoes most but freely feed on wheat and oats. They thrive best in sod ground and may be controlled by crop rotation, fall plowing, and good cultivation So may the grub-worms.

Grass hoppers damage field and garden crops, and fruit and shade trees. Poison bran mash sowed early in the morning kills them and their eggs may be destroyed by cultivating pastures, meadows and waste lands late in the fall.

Corn root lice suck the juices from the roots of corn, grasses, and weeds. They depend on colonies of small brown ants for protection and transportation and may be controlled by crop rotation, fall plowing, and early spring cultivation to destroy weeds and grasses.

The army worm which eats the leaves of field and garden crops may be trapped in dusty ditches or killed with poison bran mash sowed broadcast late in the evening. Badly infested meadows should be cut at once to save as much of the hay as possible.

Hessian fly grubs feed between the leaf sheath and the stalk at the crown and lower joints of the plant. Destroy the "flax seeds" which produce next year's crop by discing and plowing stubble as soon after harvesting as possible. Keep down all volunteer wheat, sow late in the fall and get your neighbors to do the same.

The chinch bug sucks the juices of corn, wheat, sorghums, and other plants of the grass family. They may be trapped in dusty ditches if they go from wheat to corn, or in rainy weather an oil or tar barrier may be necessary. If they get to the corn, spray it with soap suds, emulsion, or tobacco solutions. The clump forming grasses by road sides and in waste lands may be burned in late fall and early winter to kill chinch bugs which collect there for the winter

The poison bran mash recommended by the Missouri College of Agriculture for the control of many insect pests is made of half a pound of powdered lead arsenate or half a pound of Paris green mixed with ten pounds of wheat bran. Add two gallons of water into which the pulp of two oranges or two lemons has been mixed together with a quart of molasses or syrup. This amount of poison bait is sufficient for sowing broadcast on two or three acres of the field to be protected. The proper use of this mixture in cut-worm time should save about half of the replanting each year.

Berlin Story Says Women With Husbands in Army Are Becoming Gamblers and Immoral.

Special to The Democrat-Forum.

Berlin, May 11.—Newspapers here complain that some of the women of the capital whose husbands have been called to the front are falling into evil ways. Many of them, so the papers allege, have started to gamble and are financially ruining their absent husbands.

That this charge is not entirely without foundation was proven by a raid made recently on the establishment of a tobacco dealer in the Alte Schoenhauser street.

Behind the store an elegantly furnished gambling house filled with fashionably dressed women was found. The police arrested about thirty of the women. All of them belong to the so-called better classes and are the wives of wealthy business men, lawyers, college professors, etc., who are fighting for the fatherland.

NODAWAY HOGS SCARCE

E. A. Springer of Quitman Tells St. Joseph Journal.

"Hogs are very scarce in my neighborhood and they are very likely to remain scarce all summer," said E. A. Springer, a well known farmer and feeder of Quitman, Mo., who was in today with a load of hogs of his own raising. "Few pigs are being raised this spring. Many sows were shipped out last winter on account of the scarcity of corn and now they are scarce and are selling at extremely high prices. Sows do not seem to be farrowing as many pigs as usual and those farrowed seem to be unhealthy."—St. Joseph Stock Yards Journal.

BANK TRIAL TODAY

Riggs National Officials Indicted for Perjury in Asserting Treasury Was Persecuting Them.

Special to The Democrat-Forum.

Washington, May 11.—The joint trial of three indicated officials of the Riggs National Bank, growing out of a long fight with Secretary of the Treasury William G. McAdoo and other treasury officials was begun today in the District of Columbia Criminal Court.

The officials—Charles C. Glover, president, and Henry H. Flather, former cashier—are charged with having perjured themselves during a trial last year of charges they made that the United States treasury officials were "persecuting" them.

The Riggs officials recently charged that treasury officials were attempting to delay the trial, so the indictments would be pending on July 1, when the Riggs bank charter expires, and would be used as an excuse for a refusal by treasury officials to extend the charter. The bank officials failed in their effort to have the trial date moved up.

What Others Believe

I believe I shall live to be at least 95 years old, and want to live only as long as I am able to work. A man's work is the most important thing in his life. The idea of combining work and play is all right for children, but it should be a man's ambition to make his work more enjoyable than his play. —Henry Ford.

Townsend's

MINISTER QUITS CHURCH BECAUSE MEMBERS SMOKE

He Did Not Want Tobacco Used at Informal Meetings of a Brotherhood. Members Bitterly Opposed Him.

Jefferson City, Mo.—As the result of a controversy with the members of the local Presbyterian brotherhood over the question of whether there should be smoking at the informal meetings of that body, Rev. J. A. Cowling, pastor of the Presbyterian church of Jefferson City, resigned.

Mr. Cowling was opposed to the use of tobacco by members of the brotherhood at their meetings and on one occasion openly suggested that smoking be not permitted. The members of the brotherhood, by common consent, went on with the smoking at the meetings. First one and then another member would bring along a box of cigars.

The smoking controversy went on for several weeks, and gradually the relations between pastor and brotherhood became more strained, with the result that Mr. Cowling tendered his resignation and the congregation voted to accept it.

LAW SURELY GIVES A PUZZLE TO SOLVE

Owner of Bees Must Know Name of Every One Before He Can Swear Out a Warrant.

Birmingham, Ala.—Becoming involved in a dispute over a trivial matter, two citizens of Montgomery county struck a snag in the law when a swarm of bees owned by one migrated to the home of the other. This renewed the trouble, and W. C. Frizzle, bailiff of the city court, was appealed to.

"I want my bees," said the original owner. "They have gone to that fellow's home."

Frizzle began an investigation to ascertain whether he had authority to return the bees to the rightful owner. After consulting many lawbooks this was his conclusion, as expressed in his own words:

"I find that before you can obtain your bees you must have them arrested in the regular way. And before they can be arrested you must swear out an individual warrant against every bee in the swarm. I also find that before you can swear out an individual warrant against every bee you must know the name of each one."

The rightful owner said he was willing to give his neighbor a warrant deed to one swarm of bees, but he did not know the name of each one in the swarm. So the bees are still in their new home.

GIRLS WITH FLOWER NAMES.

Arrange a Club For the Study of Wild Plants.

Mill Valley, Cal.—Out of the deep tangled wildwood of this hamlet, nestling at the base of Mount Tamalpais, has come a school children's club, unique at least in the nomenclature of its governing officers.

The club has been organized for the study of wild flowers, which are now a gay pattern of many colors over the sloping hills of the countryside. The children, mostly girls, met and elected officers, as follows: President, Charlotte Rose; vice president, Margaret Leaf; secretary, Doris Plant; treasurer, Mary Moss; Directors, Violet White and Fern Murphy.

They will begin at once their studies, which are to be prosecuted vigorously in all of their out of school hours.

No blooms of rarest ray serene will be permitted to bud and blush unseen in the shady dells of Tamalpais.

CHILD SAVES HOME.

Little Boy Fights Fire and Climbs on Chair to Telephone For Help.

Lead, S. D.—Nerve and pluck exhibited by the five-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Mitchell saved both himself and the family home from destruction by fire, although the child was nearly overcome when the firemen rescued him.

The little fellow had been left alone with a playmate while his parents were out, and they commenced to play with matches. Soon the bed was afire, and the flames spread.

The other boy ran out, but the Mitchell child fought the flames with small pails of water, in the meantime climbing on a chair to reach the telephone, by which he notified the fire department. Chemicals quickly extinguished the blaze.

Hens Lay Two Eggs a Day.

Sandusky, O.—Henry McEllery, a farmer living near Milan, says he has built a henhouse so illuminated with acetylene gas that each day is divided into four periods, two of darkness and two of light so alternated that his hens have what they think is two days and two nights every twenty-four hours. "The result is an egg from each hen every time one of the artificial days dawns," said McEllery, who, fighting the high cost of living, refuses to protect his scheme.

Elyria, O.—The shortest letter ever known in this section was received by James Penrod, constable in Sheffield township, from C. A. Johnson of Youngstown. It says, "As I have nothing to do I shall write, and as I have nothing to say I shall close."

EXCHANGES HER DOG FOR RAILROAD FARES

Woman Without Enough Money Trades Canine For Two Railway Tickets.

Wichita, Kan.—In the earlier days bartering was the method of exchange. The Indians used wampum, beads and other trinkets to secure things that they desired. All the records of bartering were placed in the discard recently at the Union station, when a woman exchanged a collie dog for two tickets to Fort Worth, Tex.

Mrs. Martha Fenton, an elderly woman, accompanied by her daughter and a collie dog, entered the office of Z. E. Brooks, city passenger agent, and informed him that they wanted to go to Fort Worth, Tex. He told them what it would cost, and they were dismayed. They informed him that it was urgent that they go, but that they did not have sufficient funds to defray their expenses. They were willing, the woman said, to trade the collie dog for the tickets. Mr. Brooks studied the matter for a moment, attempting to think of what use he could put a collie dog. Nothing came to his mind, and he said that he would find a purchaser. Mr. Wright, who was at the office at the time, stated that he would take it. The tickets were purchased, and with a parting pat and sorrowful look they bid goodby to their dog as Mr. Wright led him away.

HER SUICIDE EFFORTS STUCK.

New Orleans.—Miss Annie Hendren, grieving over her mother's recent death, tried to drown herself in the Mississippi. She went aboard a ferryboat and dashed for the edge to take the plunge. But just there the tragedy became a comedy.

The deck had been freshly tarred, and Miss Hendren's feet stuck. She struggled, knocked over a pail of tar, sat down abruptly and stuck some more.

Gallant Captain David W. Garner had seen the girl rush and started for the rescue. A yard from her his own feet got stuck. He fell forward, and his hands stuck.

Rescuers crept cautiously forward while the captain and the would be suicide wrestled, struggled, heaved and finally tore themselves loose. The girl fled from the sticky deck toward safety, not the river.

GIRL WITH "MOVIEITIS" IS SENT TO A HOME FOR CURE

She Cut Off Hair as Cowgirls Do and Wrecked Rooms a la Film Comedy.

Paterson, N. J.—Rose Rossini, fifteen, of this city, was arraigned before Judge Klenert in the juvenile court, charged with incorrigibility. She had cut off her long brown tresses, and she explained that cowgirls in the movies did it, and she wanted to be a cowgirl.

"I guess you've got a plain case of 'movieitis,'" said the court, "so I am going to send you to the Florence Crittention home until your hair grows again. Perhaps a stay in the home will cure you."

"Why, it'll take a year for my hair to grow back again," cried Rose. "I can't stay there all that time!"

"It will all depend on your behavior," said the court.

Detectives testified that Rose had wrecked rooms in homes where she had been employed because she had seen it done in the movies.

SPEECHLESS A YEAR, SHE SUDDENLY TALKS

Family of Woman Is Astonished When She Says, "I Feel Better Now."

New York.—Suddenly regaining the power of speech she lost through a stroke of paralysis a year ago, Mrs. William Cuppinger, thirty years old, of College Point, N. Y., startled her family by remarking, "I feel better now."

Her long period of silence had been broken while she suffered from what was believed to be grip. She said she first felt a violent snap in her head. This was followed by a buzzing sensation which passed away and left her feeling much better. Finally her speech came in whispers and then was loud enough for those at the bedside to hear.

Dr. Harry M. Biffar, her physician, was greatly astonished at the outcome of the case, for he never expected that Mrs. Cuppinger would ever talk again. He said he thought the loss of her speech was due to the rupture of a blood vessel. A blood clot formed, and the physician used treatment to dissolve it.

CRUSHED BY JUNK IRON.

Victim In a Car Released When Cries Attracted Train Crew.

Lafayette, Ind.—When a westbound Wabash freight train was passing through Lafayette recently the shrieks of a man in distress were heard, and the train was brought to a standstill.

When the train crew investigated it was found that James Fisk of Springfield, Mass., aged twenty-four, had become imprisoned in a car of loose junk iron.

Fisk had been "beating" his way on the train, and a short time before the cries were heard the train had broken in two. When the cars came together with a crash a mass of junk iron slid over on top of Fisk's legs. At the time he was sleeping in the end of a gondola car, and it was impossible for him to free himself. He could not be rescued until the car had been bumped several times to jar the mass of iron away from his legs. He was taken to the hospital in a terribly crushed condition. His cries aroused hundreds of people from their sleep. It is probable he will recover.

CHILDREN EXEMPT HIM.

Father Receives a Canceled Tax Receipt When Sheriff Sees Seven Sons.

Wichita, Kan.—James Gourley, an expressman, appeared at the Sedgwick county courthouse recently to pay his personal taxes, which amounted to $4.70. He did not have the money, but he took along with him his seven children, all boys under thirteen years old.

"It'll work a hardship on me to pay this money," Gourley told Sheriff Frank Sarver, "as I've got my hands full feeding and clothing and keeping these children in school." County officials gathered around the sheriff's office and observed the family, all healthy, clean and happy.

When Gourley left with his seven boys trailing behind him his personal tax receipt was marked paid and each of the children carried a quarter.

SNOOZE JAILS JERSEY RIP.

He Couldn't Support Wife While He Slept and Beat Her When He Woke.

New Brunswick, N. J.—Sleeping may not be a crime, but a little ten day nap netted John Pelfey of this city ten days in the county jail. He was charged by his wife with nonsupport, and she testified that for ten days he had remained constantly in bed. She said he was in the habit of staying in bed for a week at a time and that he always celebrated the end of the nap by beating her.

When court opened a constable was sent for Pelfey and turned him out of bed. It took three officers to dress him.

"Don't be loud and boisterous.

"Be modest and virtuous.

"Choose carefully your company of both sexes.

"Open your eyes and ears, but keep your heart closed to the gush and nonsense from the so called lovers.

"Be careful about your dress. Have it becoming and tasteful.

"Be more careful about what is in your head than what is in your heart.

"Don't be self conceited.

"Think carefully and prayerfully about your wedding day.

"Be considerate about the time and money of your gentlemen friends.
